Position Definition

The Dalhousie Computer Science Society Member at Large position is held by one with the responsibility of representing the Faculty of Computer Science as a whole and acting on the direction of the Council, as per the 2007 amended constitution. This amended constitution, however, was not yet accepted by the Faculty at the time of the writing of this document.

Summer 2007 Review

While without a vote, I was still respectfully given permission to address council matters and allow my opinion to be considered by other members of Council. As a member who was new in general to the Computer Science Society Council, I spent most meetings getting an overall view of how the Council works and how they operate as a whole to address issues that are brought forward.

I believe the summer 2007 Council driven events (BBQ, GeekBeer, etc) were appreciated overall by the Faculty of Computer Science, taking into consideration that the summer term sees a dramatic decrease in campus population in regards to other terms. While turn-out to some events was low, I don't believe this was the fault of Council but more on the time of year.

Personally, being on Council has allowed me to see into the inner workings of the student-driven Computer Science Society and has also opened doors for me, such as allowing me to become part of the Women in Technology Society.
