

Happy Spring!

This is my term report as Secretary of the Dalhousie Computer Science Society for Winter 2007. Much of what should be outlined is covered in my Fall 2006 term report so please refer to that for information on the duties of the Secretary, recommendations and templates. In this report I will outline what I did this semester as Secretary and other things I contributed to.

1. I attended all meetings but two of the CSS this term. I took minutes on my laptop during the meetings, converted the file to PDF and would send it to the CSS mailing list. This term's meeting minutes can be found on the CSS website.
2. I bartended a few GeekBeers this semester in addition to my regular Secretary duties. I sat occasionally on Faculty committees as the CSS needed. I worked with a few other people in CSS to start a preliminary WiCS (Women in Computing Science) group and hope to help this expand in the future. In addition I helped organize a trip to Mount Allison University to see Steve Wozniack speak.
3. That is pretty much everything I can think of. My last report was very long and detailed and really outlined far more than this, so please read that one in addition to this one to get an actual feel for the position and what it entails.

The End!
